Boston, Nov. IS. A singular will case came up before Judge Choate, in the Probate Court in Salem, to-day. It is an attempt to set up a will made in 1807 and another in 1822. The first is that of Salah Pendergast, who died in Haverhill in 1822, and the second that of Samue, Frink, Jr., who died in 1842. Clarence A. Haddock of Haverhill is the petitioner to have the wills set up. The title of the square where the Boston and Maine depot in Haverhill stands, is involved in the case, and where the wills have been during all this time is a question which has not been solved. The wills were allowed and Col. Lincoln took an appeal for the railroad company.
